CAPITOL ARTWORK LOAN PROGRAM: EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW

Changes big and small are coming to Wisconsin's Capitol with the start of a new biennial session on the horizon. The rotation of office assignments with each election cycle brings a burst of activity to the Wisconsin Historical Society's Capitol Artwork Loan Program. This popular program, first introduced in 2011, is an extension of the Society's mission to connect people to the past by collecting, preserving, and sharing stories.

What is the Capitol Artwork Loan Program?

The program offers a unique opportunity to share items from the Society's collection with legislators, residents and visitors to the Capitol. Works of art, portraits, and high-quality scans of historic materials like maps and photographs are made available for display in public spaces and legislator offices. Legislators can request up to two framed pieces per room on a first-come-first-serve basis.

What should I know for the upcoming election cycle?

Society staff are already in the process of contacting all legislators who are not seeking re-election to facilitate the return of loaned items. Following the general election on Nov.

5, staff will contact remaining offices of those elected officials who will not be returning in 2025 to retrieve items on loan to their offices. For elected officials returning in 2025, staff will coordinate the transfer of currently loaned items as new office assignments are finalized. The Society will also work with newly elected officials who are interested in the program starting in January 2025.

For questions or more information, contact Kennedy McCarthy via phone at (608) 347-6268 or email at kennedy.mccarthy@wisconsinhistory.org.

Works of art including portraits and landscapes as well high-quality scanned replicas of historic maps, photographs, posters, letters and treaties are available through the program.
