TIME THE COMFORTER

Upon the sleepy morning of a busy day, a sudden gust of wind and rain swept through the city, causing the streets to become a sea of mud. The people rushed for shelter, seeking refuge from the elements. Among them was a young woman, dressed in a long, wet dress, her hair clinging to her face. She walked slowly through the streets, her thoughts distant and preoccupied. Suddenly, she noticed a small shelter, a small shop with an open door, offering a momentary respite from the storm. She stepped inside, and the shopkeeper greeted her warmly, offering her a cup of hot tea. The woman gratefully accepted, and as she sipped the warm liquid, she felt the tension in her body begin to ease. The rain outside continued, but inside the shop, it was a different world, one of comfort and warmth, a sanctuary from the elements. The woman sat there, lost in thought, until the storm subsided and she could safely step back out into the world. The memory of this moment stayed with her for days, reminding her that even in the midst of chaos, there is always a place to find peace.
